               faster. No more group chats, awkward invitations, waiting for responses, scheduling, calendar conflicts and asking people to pay.
               How it works:
               1. Book to attend.
               2. Post events, either public or private, for free or for payment.
               3. Follow friends and get notifications so you don't miss anything.
               Whether it's a happy hour, dinner, performance, or study group, you can post anything at any time. Like your personal assistant, Festi finds out who's free, collects money (if you want), and handles any
